HOLLYWOOD, CA (December 6, 2010) The wait is finally over – Miss Behave Season Two is set to debut both on their official home, <http://missbehave.tv> and the web network <http://koldcast.tv> in just under two weeks. Says creator/executive producer Susan Bernhardt, "It seems like we just launched the show and now it's already time for our Season Two premiere!" She continues, "Although we hit a few obstacles just weeks before production, Season Two is 100 percent better than the first. From our amazingly dedicated cast and crew, exquisite music, generous branding sponsors, and everyone else that supported the show. Our 2nd season story will make you laugh and cry in the same episode - I can't wait to share it with the world!"

Leading the cast of Miss Behave is eighteen year old actress and executive producer Jillian Clare, currently seen as mean girl "Haley" in Freak the Freak Out, the one hour Victorious movie on Nickelodeon. Why a Gift Card Drive? With the holiday season upon us, we found it only fitting to support a cause and decided to sponsor a toy drive for Children's Hospital LA. However, space at the hospital to store all of the toys and gifts is at a premium, so we opted for the perfect alternative - a "Gift Card Drive" instead of a traditional toy drive. Gift cards allow them to maximize the gift for the patients because they provide the staff with the flexibility to make "on-demand" toy purchases as they are needed for the patients. If a particular patient would benefit less from a toy and more from an educational game or book, they might be able to distribute a gift card to that patient as a gift from you to them during their recovery.

Children's Hospital Los Angeles is a non-profit academic and pediatric medical center. CHLA provides the highest quality health care for children who are the sickest and most seriously injured in our region and beyond.
